Mining Matters Reflections

Today, you have the opportunity to try something new, work with your hands, discover and explore! You will also learn about the trade of mining! Throughout and following your workshop, you may reflect on your experience and on what you have learned today. You can use this 3-part Experiential Learning Cycle.

We can be mindful of and think about the questions in Part 1 DURING our experience. We can record our thinking and respond to them after.
We can respond to the Questions in Part 2 and part 3 after the experience.

We can be mindful of and think about the questions in Part 1 DURING our experience. We can record our thinking and respond to them after.
Part 1 - PARTICIPATE The 'What' - Joining in the Deeper and Deeper Workshop
Think about what you are doing during the workshop. What are you exploring? What are you learning? What are you thinking about during the workshop? What are you feeling?
We can respond to the Questions in Part 2 and part 3 after the experience.
Part 2 - REFLECT The 'So What?' - We consider what we are learning from the workshop experience.

We can reflect on the workshop experience and ask ourselves these questions:

What have you learned about yourself? Did you enjoy the workshop? Why or why not? Explain.

What have you learned about other people? What have you learned about the world?

Have you learned about any future opportunities (e.g. new things you might like to explore or careers you learned more about)?

Have you learned about anything else? Explain.

Part 3 - APPLY
The 'Now What?' - Consider future learning and pathways.

Has my learning from the Deeper and Deeper workshop guided me to want to know more about the topics or about careers in mining? Explain.

What questions do I have now?
(You might think about: careers in mining, learning that could happen at school or at home, places to explore, or other questions.)

Thank you for sharing your reflections!
